DIED.

Judge Curtis C. Mastin died on the 13th inst. at his home on Brush creek, near this city in the 76th year of his age. He was one of Powell's best citizens and one that will be greatly missed. Judge Mastin was in very comfortable circumstances at the time of his death, though he lost a good deal through his generosity of making security debts.

He was twice elected Judge of this Powell county, and served his people well; was always on the lookout for the benefit of the county.

He was a member of Powell's Valley Baptist church where he was buried Sunday. A wife, several children and a host of friends survive him.

An exchange gets off to following: It is said that a gentleman in Portland, Maine a few years since, in time of poverty, announced in a daily paper that he would give a bag of flour, a bushel of meal and a sack of potatoes or something equivalent to them, to any family who were poor who did use tobacco, drink whisky or keep a dog. He was willing to do this for one hundred families. But he did not have one single applicant for his bounty. There are hundreds of such characters in this country.

As the income of the Government now largely exceeds its expenses it is time to reduce the more burdensome war taxes. Of these the small tax on bank checks and medicines should be the first to go, since it necessitates a great deal of labor on the part of the people for a little revenue. The stamps on medicinal preparations, perfumery, etc., harass the druggists, as well as the manufacturers. It is said that the entire tax levied under schedule B were repealed the annual reduction of the revenue would not equal the surplus for a single month. These taxes would probably be repealed at this session of Congress were it not for the bankers, who form one of the most powerful influences in politics, and demand that the beer tax shall be the first to be repealed.

Congress will adjourn as soon after June 1 as practicable. Most of the Republican members desire to close the session before the Republican National Convention, which occurs June 17. The Democratic convention meets on July 4, and both parties like to have time to look after matters at home. Besides this, the members are always anxious to get out of Washington before the hot weather. It is a pity that Congress could not reassemble with the return of cooler weather, in September, instead of waiting until December, when it has no time to do much before the holidays, and practically nothing until the next January.

There are 50 million herd of cattle in the United States, of which number from 15 to 20 million are dairy cows. If every one of our readers would get Biggle Cow Book, published at 50 cents by the Wilmer Atkinson Co., Philadelphia, they could greatly increase the product from every cow in their herd.

At Princeton, Ind., Thomas M. Brown has sued the saloon-keepers of Oakland City, for $5,000 damages on account of his son having become a physical and mental wreck from the liquor they have illegally sold him during the past 10 years, or since he was nine years of age. As the report speaks of saloon-keepers illegally selling to the boy, it is inferred that although Oakland City has licensed saloons, the law still has enough humanity and decency to fix a limit of age before a youth may be turned over to the tender mercies of a saloon-keeper, to be made a physical and mental wreck, his home, if he have one, wrecked and saddened, and his family weighted with sorrow and humiliation. Before that time the law throws before him a protecting shield and says to the liquor man: "Hands off! that time when you may legally destroy home and hope, and wreck body, mind and soul, has not yet come." When the law says, as it should say, that that time never comes, there will be in the hearts of women and children, at least, such a song of gladness as has never been heard on earth.

Leading a life of unfeeling, stupid laziness.

Contriving to keep up a continual worry about something or nothing.

Allowing the desire for gain to absorb our minds, so as to leave no time to attend to our health.

Tempering the appetite with bitters and narcotics when the stomach says no, and forcing food into it when nature does not demand and even rejects it; gourmandizing between meals.

Marrying in haste and getting an uncongenial companion, and living the remainder of life in mental dissipation, cultivating jealousies and domestic broils and always being in a mental ferment.

Surfeiting on hot and very stimulating dinners, eating in a hurry, without half masticating the food, and eating heartily before going to bed, when the mind and body are exhausted by the toils of the day and the excitement of the evening health.—Ex.

Every discriminating person will say that The Biggle books advertised in this issue of the Times, contain a greater amount of condensed, common sense, well arranged information than any books they have seen relating to these important branches of farm industry. Broken-down Women weary from pain and the torture of over-taxed nerves, it is but natural that you should be low-spirited and dejected. Worn-out by the care, the worry and the long suffering from weaknesses that have baffled the best efforts of your family doctor, it is no wonder you have become discouraged, and think there is nothing left for you but suffering and misery. Do not give up all hope, do not lose all courage. Remember Dr. Miles' Nervine has helped thousands of despondent women to regain their lost health and failing strength. It quiets the irritated nerves, rests the weary brain and drives worry and care away. It gives rest to the failing appetite, invigorates the digestion and adds new strength and vigor to the whole system. Don't forget the name.

DR. MILES' Nervine.

"Change of life left me a total wreck and I suffered nervousness, rheumatism, heart trouble and dropsy. When I commenced taking Dr. Miles' Nervine last December I was thought to be in the last stages of nervous prostration and was scarcely able to move about the house. I began to improve almost from the first dose, and in a few months I was enjoying better health than I had before in fifteen years. I am now able to walk ten or a dozen blocks without feeling in the least fatigued, and I bless the day I first heard of Dr. Miles' Nervine."
